Answers:

- A1. The base chakra directly incorporates the vibrations of the heavens through the soul's seed-light and directly incorporates the vibrations of Earth through proximity.
- A2. The primary task of the empowered base chakra is that of ensuring environmental compatibility.
- A3. The determining factor is the overall vibration rate of the individual's physical and subtle bodies.
- A4. Within any given place or environment that is in harmony with the individual, will be the light frequencies that are available for assimilation, and that will propel her on her path to enlightenment.

A5. The base chakra's over-all vibrational frequency rate is the same as the person's over-all vibrational frequency rate. The base charka's vibration is a miniature replica of the person's vibration. It is identical, but significantly scaled down in size.

A6. For an incarnate individual, the most compatible environment possesses the specific light frequencies needed for empowerment at that moment in time.

A7. The base chakra either attracts or brings the needed environment to the individual, or it creates the circumstances that move the individual to the needed environment.

A8. Being in the right place and having the right light frequencies available provides the individual with the opportunity to grow into the enlightened state at an optimum rate.
